Back To The Basics

By all standards of responsible journalism, columnist Jack Anderson blundered badly over the cardinal rule that city editors strive to beat into the heads of cub reporters: Get the facts. Get them first, if possible, but get them straight. Anderson's erroneous report that Sen. Thomas Eagleton had been arrested several times for drunken or reckless driving will have to go down in journalism textbooks as a prime example of how not to report a story.

That it was a Pulitzer Prize winner who committed the error makes it all the more unfortunate. Anderson has harmed both his own and Senator Eagleton's reputations in a manner that defies restitution.

If readers view this journalistic peccancy with dismay, we join them. Anderson's folly should be a lesson to him and to the Fourth Estate — get the facts. Sadly enough, Anderson didn't seem to try very hard in the Eagleton case. — Columbia (S.C.) State

Instant Replay For Justice

Use of videotape in courtrooms promises to speed up the administration of justice and maybe improve it. A sample in Akron, Ohio, was reported by a newsman who had been called for jury service and selected to help write the $3,500 verdict in a suit for injuries suffered in an auto accident last fall.

The trial took only two hours, including a 15-minute recess. The plaintiff was in Pensacola, where he now lives. The defendant was at work on his trucking dock job in Akron. The only other witness, an orthopedic surgeon, was vacationing out of state.

After the seating of the jury and the opening statements of attorneys for both sides, everything else was on tape, shown on television sets. The judge was free to go elsewhere and settle two civil cases, dispose of two motions in another case and get ready for an upcoming trial.

The first similar use of videotape in a courtroom occurred in Florida last Dec. 15, and was described in the Florida Bar Journal last March. The device was used to present the deposition of a Tennessee surgeon who treated a Tennessee girl hurt in a traffic accident in Florida. The surgeon could not come to Florida for the trial, but testified, answering questions from both sides, while attending a seminar in Gainesville.

It's all experimental now, but we can see worthwhile possibilities from this serious use of TV. — Miami (Fla.) Herald

Just Wonderful

My goodness, effused Miss Australia as she became Miss Universe, if all these girls from all these different nations could get along so well during the contest why can't their countries get along so we can have world peace?

We wish we had thought of that. We never think of anything profound. — Charlotte (N.C.) Observer

'Communist apologist' tag is pinned on McG

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, still proclaiming neutrality in the presidential race, has called Democratic nominee George McGovern an "apologist for the Communist world."

Meanwhile, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said that McGovern had asked him early in July to consider the possibility of becoming the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Speaking Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation," Meany said:

"Frankly, when I read the things that George McGovern stands for (and I find out that he's become an apologist for the Communist world) my goodness, doesn't this man know there are no countries in the world where people chose communism?"

And, Meany said, his labor organization could not support McGovern despite a 100 per cent voting record toward labor in the past year because "his whole record, from my point of view, toward labor is not a good record."

As an example, Meany said the Nixon administration "was behind us" on the Supersonic Transport (SST), which the labor leader said would have meant thousands of jobs. But he said "McGovern ... you just name the whole crowd of liberal Democrats, and they were all against it (SST)."

Appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," Woodcock said, "I was asked to seriously consider the possibility (of the Democratic vice presidential nomination) and not to close my mind to it, and that was early in July, by the senator himself, and at that point I was amazed."

Asked about Meany's statement that McGovern is an "apologist for the Communist world," Woodcock replied:

Nixon is pictured as champ of work ethic -- by Nixon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has pictured himself on this Labor Day as a champion of the "work ethic" while suggesting that Sen. George McGovern, his Democratic challenger for the White House, favors a "welfare ethic."

In an election oriented holiday statement taped and released to radio stations Sunday night, Nixon also criticized AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has said he will vote for neither Nixon nor McGovern.

Nixon said clear choices must be made by the voters in November.

"If the working man does not see the danger, if he decides to sit out this election, the choices will be made without him," Nixon said.

In the catch-all statement the

"It disturbs me when any American hangs that appellation on any other American, particularly when it is not supported by the facts. Trying to say that George McGovern with his military record and his record of Americanism is an apologist for the Communist world is something that escapes my imagination."

Chief Executive also reaffirmed his opposition to busing to achieve school desegregation and laid claim to achieving record employment, curbing inflation and bringing work stoppages to a six-year low.

Although he never mentioned McGovern, Nixon's intent was clear as he said:

"We are faced this year with the choice between the 'work ethic' that built this nation's character — and the new 'welfare ethic' that could cause that American character to weaken."

Nixon argued that what he termed the welfare ethic "says that the good life can be made available to everyone right now, and this can be done by the government."

He said it envisions redistribution of national wealth to guarantee money for everybody.

Homeward bound

Jarrill E. Williams of Pine Bluff opens up cages containing more than 60 homing pigeons which belong to members of the Pine Bluff Pigeon Flyers Club. The birds were turned loose on the Hope High School football field, wheeled around the stadium (see right) for several minutes then winged eastward. Williams said that 90 to 95 per cent of the pigeons would make it safely to the individual members' lofts. He said it would be about a 2½-hour flight for the birds.

McGovern... ..Shriver

One appeals, one attacks

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — George McGovern formally opened his full-time come-from-behind bid for the presidency today, echoing his party's traditional Labor Day appeal to the working man's pocketbook.

The South Dakota senator, who trailed President Nixon by 34 points in the latest Gallup Poll, told labor gatherings in the Akron-Canton area the administration favors oil millionaires, large corporations and other "special interests."

But the American public, McGovern said, got "the economic black magic" invented by Richard Nixon when he gave us recession and inflation at the same time.

McGovern's speech for the Labor Day crowd—a rally and a picnic—was heavy on the so-called "bread and butter issues" of jobs and taxes, and very light on the issue that first brought McGovern to national prominence—the Vietnam war.

McGovern broke his party's long-standing tradition of opening the campaign in Detroit's Cadillac Square and opted instead for appearances at a Labor Day parade and rally in Barberton, Ohio and a United Auto Workers picnic in Chipewa Lake, Ohio. Later in the day he planned to fly to the West Coast for an AFL-CIO picnic near Oakland, Calif., and an overnight stay in Seattle.

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP) — R. Sargent Shriver said today that the nation's coal miners "have had to suffer and die needlessly" because President Nixon entrusted "political hacks" to enforce mine safety laws.

"The Nixon administration puts big business on the back, while the miners take it in the neck, added Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Shriver's remarks were prepared for delivery during a visit to victims of black lung disease — a lung condition associated with inhalation of coal dust — at the Appalachian Regional Hospital in Beckley.

Shriver flew into Charleston, W. Va., Sunday afternoon on board the first fully equipped campaign plane of his month-old candidacy. The plane's name, "Lucky Seven," refers to the fact Shriver was George McGovern's seventh choice to replace Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., as his running mate.

At a dinner Sunday with 130 Democratic politicians and labor leaders at a downtown Charleston hotel, Shriver assailed as "typical of Republican mentality," what he called Nixon administration plans to cut back sharply on federal health, education and job training programs.

Ken Coon, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, made a hand-shaking tour of Hope last Friday. Above he stopped to talk and give a piece of gum to Debra Thomas, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brice Thomas of Hope. When questioned as to why he is running for Lieutenant Governor, Coon made the following statement:

"We are living in a complicated time. To keep pace we must upgrade our attitudes and approaches to government. It is time that Arkansas had a fulltime, action-oriented lieutenant governor who is ready to do more than cut ribbons and make after-dinner speeches."

Thieu sets death penalty for hijacking, abolishes trials

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has decreed the death penalty for hijacking and a number of other offenses and abolished court trials for military men and civil servants accused of major crimes. Now Thieu or his chief appointees will judge and sentence them.

The edicts are contained in two more decree laws issued under a six-month grant of special powers Thieu obtained from the Senate in June, when government forces were reeling from the North Vietnamese offensive.

As reported today by the government news agency, Vietnam Press, the second of the two new laws gives the president, prime minister, other cabinet ministers and the chairman of the joint general staff the right to judge and sentence:

1. Civil servants accused of treason or cooperating with the Communists.

2. Military men accused of desertion, rebellion, unauthorized surrender or violations or orders in the face of the enemy.

3. Civil servants or military men accused of such crimes as murder, rape, corruption, embezzlement of public funds and theft or sale of government supplies and equipment.

The only restriction on the exercise of these summary powers is that each case must be investigated, and accused persons have the right to make pleas in their own behalf.

For lesser charges against military men and civil servants, regular court procedures remain in effect.

Thieu already has ordered the arrest of some military field commanders for dereliction in combat situations, particularly the abandonment of positions without authority. But the theft and resale of military fuel, weapons and other items has continued to be a major form of corruption within the armed forces.

In the other new decree, Thieu ordered the death penalty for the hijackings of an aircraft or watercraft, and also for kidnapping, armed robbery, robbery conspiracy, gang rape, forcing someone to engage in prostitution, and commission of any other "violent act" resulting in an innocent death or disabling injury.

Family offers reward

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — A total of $27,000 is awaiting anyone who provides information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for killing two Texarkana, Tex. women last month.

The figure was raised by $25,000 from $2,000 by the families of Mrs. Florence Jones, 49, and Mrs. Lois Jernigan, 52, who were shot to death Aug. 13.

Organ Dedication Recital Starts Monday

The week-long organ prededication recital program scheduled at Bethel A.M.E. Church this week will be initiated Monday evening (tonight) at 8 o'clock with the unusual talent heritage from the Hope community. The Lonoke Baptist Church music department will be guest observers.

Mrs. B.C. Hyatt will play the organ and the Reverend Robert Lee Hyatt, son of the Methodist organist will sing.

Mrs. Hyatt is organist emerita at the First Methodist Church. She celebrated her 50th anniversary as an organist several years ago. Mrs. Hyatt is a Hope native and a graduate of Randolph Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Virginia. She also attended Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, and has attended many choir schools and clinics. A retired school teacher, the organist is active in the Wesleyan Guild, the P.E.O. the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, and the Friday Music Club.

The Reverend Robert Lee Hyatt, pastor of Ashdown Presbyterian Church in Ashdown, attended Hope Public Schools, Arkansas College, Austin College, the University of Arkansas, and Union Seminary in Richmond, Virginia. The Clergyman sang in several college choirs during his school days. Rev. Hyatt will sing two Arias from the

No Time for Hanky-Panky

Dear Helen:
Frequently I see articles in your column about unfaithful spouses, with the comment, "I'd leave him (or her) except for the children."

My question regarding those roving mates is, "Where do they get the strength?" Moral issue aside, it's the physical problem I'm concerned with. Please, Helen, the next man you come across who is stepping out on his wife and young children, ask him what special vitamins he takes. And for my wife, inquire how a young mother of several even finds time for the late, late show without falling asleep, much less an energy-consuming affair.

This is how it is in my family, which I consider average. My day starts with getting up early to walk the dog. Then commuting to work, traffic snarls, temper frayed even before I'm at my desk. The usual trials of a job, then home (through even worse traffic), where my children are waiting at the gate or just inside the door. So's the dog. The cat ignores me.

By the time they've been properly fondled and tumbled and fed and tucked in, and dinner is over, it's well after eight p.m. (More like nine!) No night is completely peaceful. If the older one doesn't want a 2 a.m. drink, then the baby is fretful and must be walked. Or the dog suddenly gets the runs, or the cat howls to go either in or out (unless he's pouncing on our bed in one of his stalking tiger moods).

Weekends there's the lawn and garden (or winter snow to shovel), various toys which need repair, assorted parts of the house that require a man's hand, barbecues, outings for the kids...

For my wife, who starts at the same time, and has to keep up with the mob all day (she swears she covers 150 miles a day on foot, most at a dead run), and finishes—practically never, she too is equally bushed.

So, Helen, if you can get any secret formulas on how married PARENTS manage the strength for those glamorous affairs, please give. Not that my wife and I are "itching." We're just —

CURIOUS
Dear Curious:
I've often wondered about this myself. Extra-marital affairs not only require much energy, but also considerable planning, subterfuge, and time. Are they really worth the effort? How about some honest appraisals from samplers. Okay? —H.

Dear Helen:
I have noted several times in your columns that either you or Sue use the adverb when the adjective is correct, as in "He feels badly about his mistake," etc. One feels BAD, not badly. Verbs of being, seeming, feeling, sensing take the adjective. A verb takes the adverb as modifier only when the manner or way of the action is described, as in "Do it quickly." Describing a condition, however, the adjective is correct: "Clip my hair close." (Not closely.)

I hope you understand and that you two will do better in the future. —MR. W.M.W.

Dear Mr. W.:
Please, you're writing to a person who has never been quite sure whether those road signs should read "Drive slow" or "Drive slowly."

However, we will watch the column "careful" and try to do it "betterly" in the future. —H.

Dear Helen:
I was away for a month (my mother was very ill). When I came back, people acted strange, but it wasn't out in the open for another month—and then someone's tongue slipped. My husband had snatched up with a "friend" and moved out of her house the day I got home. What kind of people are these, to pretend they're close to me, yet not let me know what was going on? —LOST FAITH

Dear Lost:
Don't "down" your friends until you put yourself in their places. Would YOU play informer in a similar case? It isn't easy, being the one whose "news" may break up a marriage. —H.

The tall girl shapes up for fall

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) —
This fall both panty hose styles and body suits will qualify for universal appeal. They are tied in with the liberation message that motivates today's fashions.

The nearly two million women 5-foot-8 and over who have been struggling with extra-large panty hose sizes ineffectively will, for the first time, have a choice of favorite styles custom designed just for their figures.

Tall Girl, a new panty hose line, includes an opaque control top designed for clingy costumes and pants, all sheer for festive occasions. Brief Top has a miniscule bit of panty knitted on smoothly at the waistband.

Body suits, which last spring were primarily designed for sinuous figures, are following the panty hose trend toward universal appeal this fall. A new generation of body suits, embellished with very feminine dressmaker details, is specifically designed to be becoming to extra-large sizes. These are called Burlington Bodies. Particularly flattering to the amply proportioned, as well as their slimmer sisters, is a stock tie design that creates a poetic Byronic mood with billowing sleeves, shirred puffs at the shoulder and elasticized wrists. Another body suit design with universal appeal has a Peter Pan collar effect with shirred dropped shoulders and puffed sleeves.

Argyles, the bold tartan classics, provide inspiration for a Highland Fling collection of body suits—a dashing base for layered looks.

Opaque panty hose revives nostalgically the sensuous drama of back seams in shock contrast that flourished in the heyday of cinema sirens like Pola Negri and Gloria Swanson.

A standout trend in the fall showings of leg fashions and body suits is the precise matching of shades to insure perfect put-together looks.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Now, at last, the long-stemmed American beauties are getting their fashion due in costumes and panty hose custom proportioned for tall girls. Five-foot-eight-inch girl (left) coordinates tall girl opaque control top panty hose in hunter green with a red, green and white checked print costume set off by a black shrink. The Argyle patterned Highland Fling Vest (right) in shades of red and black costars with brief top panty hose in a red hot shade. Choose your layers to suit your fancy—matching skirt with tartan vest plus a different patterned jacket if you wish. It's liberation day for the fashion individualist.

Bobcats win opener

The Hope Bobcats rallied from a scoreless first half to stop the Ashdown Panthers 26-0 in the Cats first game of the 1972 season.

The first quarter ended scoreless. Ashdown made a threat late in the quarter only to be stopped short at the Hope 12-yard line by a stubborn Bobcat defense.

The Cats were plagued by penalty flags in the second quarter. As a face guarding and a personal foul allowed Ashdown to move 67 yards in nine plays and cap it off by sneaking Jimmy Welch over from the three-yard line for six. But Hope came right back as David Huddleston blocked the point attempt. This made the score Ashdown 6, Hope 0 with 4:28 left in the quarter and that's the way it ended.

A different team came back from the Bobcat locker room after the half.

The third quarter was Hope's as they controlled the ball for 9:32. Most of the time was used upon Hope's first touchdown drive which went 62 yards in 15 plays and was capped off by a 3 yard. Touchdown blast by David Johnson with 4:08 left in the quarter. The "Pat" by Paul Bazar was good and Hope took the lead 7-6. They never relinquished it.

Hope's second touchdown—a five-yard run by David Johnson—came with 2:09 left in that same period. The "Pat" was good and Hope led 14-6.

In the fourth quarter Hope broke the game wide open as they completely overwhelmed Ashdown.

With 4:18 left in the game Johnson broke 54 yards for Hope's third touchdown. Bazar's kick was off to the right and Hope held a comfortable 20-6 lead.

With :48 remaining, Johnson got loose again and flew 61 yards for Hope's final score. Bazar's kick was blocked and Hope led 26-6.

Hope then played it safe and kicked short. Two plays later Willard Willmon intercepted a Panther pass to pack it away.

When the buzzer rang out fans stormed the field while the Bobcats ran sprints as a tribute to the coaches.

One fact is established: Hope is no darkhorse. But a serious contender for the 7-AA Title.

SURROUNDED—The Hope Bobcats display just one of the reasons why Ashdown was held to six points in Friday's game as they surround an Ashdown player. The Bobcats led the scoring with a final 26-6 tally.

Chiefs break Cowboy winning streak

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

In what may have been a preview of the Super Bowl next January the Kansas City Chiefs snapped the 15-game winning streak of the Dallas Cowboys in pro football.

Coch Hank Stram has been saying right along that his Chiefs are the best team he ever had and their 20-10 exhibition triumph over the current Super Bowl Champions during the Labor Day holiday weekend convinced any doubters.

Aaron Brown intercepted a Craig Morton pass in the opening minutes and ran it back 53 yards for a touchdown. The Chiefs went on to take a commanding 20-3 lead before the Cowboys scored in the last quarter on a 45-yard pass from Morton to Billy Parks.

"We were thrilled we could beat them," Stram said. "We put a lot of pressure on them. We deflected four passes and those are big plays. I think Morton gets unjust criticism. He's a great quarterback."

The game was one of 10 National Football League exhibitions Sunday and Saturday. On Sunday San Francisco knocked Oakland from the unbeaten ranks 34-21, Cincinnati humbled Cleveland 27-21 while Chicago and Buffalo fought to a 24-24 tie.

In addition to Kansas City over Dallas, other Saturday results found St. Louis whipping Green Bay 31-10, San Diego shading Los Angeles 14-13, Pittsburgh walloping New Orleans 56-7, the New York Giants taking Philadelphia 27-12, Denver trouncing New England 49-24 and the New York Jets overcoming Atlanta 9-6.

Detroit downed Baltimore 24-17 Friday night.

Red Sox rained out, Tigers lose 3-1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox may have come up with a way to win the pennant race that nobody wants in the wacky American League East — don't play.

The Red Sox were rained out of Sunday's scheduled baseball game with Kansas City but moved past Detroit and New York into second place when the Tigers lost to Oakland 3-1 and the Yankees were blanked by the Chicago White Sox 5-0.

Front-running Baltimore also lost — 1-0 in 10 innings to California — and the four contenders labored into Labor Day with the Orioles one-half game in front of the other three contenders but three percentage points ahead of Boston and four over Detroit and New York.

Elsewhere, Cleveland downed Minnesota 4-1 and Texas turned back Milwaukee by the same score.

Although the perennial champion Orioles have been shut out in their last two starts, Manager Earl Weaver remained unshaken.

"I still think we're gonna win it," he said. "I've felt that way all along and there's no reason to change now."

Andy Messersmith stopped the Orioles on five hits Sunday after Rudy May limited them to three safeties Saturday night. Baltimore's Mike Cuellar hurled nine shutout innings before giving way to a pinch hitter and the Angels promptly tagged Eddie Watt for the game's only run.

Jeff Torborg opened with a single to deep short and pinch runner Curt Motton took second on catcher Johnny Oates' passed ball.

Carlton keeps burning 'em in

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are fastballs and there are fastballs ... and then there's Steve Carlton's fastball. "He was still burning them in even in the ninth inning with all that heat," said catcher John Bateman after the Philadelphia Phillies' ultra-successful southpaw dominated the Atlanta Braves 8-0 with a five-hitter Sunday.

Carlton's velocity still had all its vitality in the late stages, working hand-in-hand beautifully with his curve and slider. "Eight runs make a lot of difference, but you can't be content in the late innings," said Carlton after winning his 22nd game. "You've got to keep trying for the shutout, for when the other team gets even one run, they are that much nearer to beating you. You can't ever give in."

Carlton's success, of course, has been all the more spectacular because he's pitching with a last-place team. The Phillies' record is 47-81 in the East.

Both runaway division leaders improved their margins as the result of Sunday's National League play. The West-Leading Cincinnati Reds improved their margin to eight games after beating the Montreal Expos 4-3. The Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the San Francisco Giants 2-1 in 10 innings and moved up 12 games in the East.

In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres defeated the Cubs 3-0; the New York Mets beat the Houston Astros 2-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3.

Boosted by an eight-run third inning which included home runs by Joe Lis and Greg Luzinski, Carlton breezed past Atlanta despite sometimes-overwhelming hot weather. "The heat bothered me at first but it got better," said Carlton. "It was a short game and that made it easier."

Hal McRae hit a two-run pinch-homer in the seventh inning to pinch Cincinnati from behind. Montreal had taken a 3-2 lead in the fifth when winning pitcher Tom Hall gave up a bases-loaded walk to force in the go-ahead run.

Richie Hebner doubled home Bob Robertson from first base with one out in the 10th as Pittsburgh defeated San Francisco. San Francisco reliever Jerry Johnson gave up the winning hit.

Fischer arrives late, collects laurel wreath

LONDON (AP) — Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky got some more good news today. They are getting the $122,500 in prize money British financier James D. Slater is putting up in any currency they want.

Slater announced today that the Bank of England has granted permission to export the 50,000 pounds he offered when Fischer was balking at starting world chess championship match in Iceland. Because of Britain's current economic troubles, currency transfers abroad are tightly controlled.

Fischer's share from Slater is $76,562.50. He got $76,125 from the Icelandic Chess Federation, making his total purse as the winner and new world's chess champion $154,687.50.

Slater said Fischer had asked that his share be paid to his account in an Icelandic bank. Apparently he wants to keep it away from promoter Chester Fox, who is suing him in New York for $1.75 million because Fischer wouldn't let him film the match.

Spassky gets $45,937.50 from Slater. With what the Icelanders paid him, the loser's purse came to $92,812.50.

Sifford leads third round

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Curtis Sifford credits his leading third-round position in the $125,000 Greater Hartford Open to the fact that he's paying more attention to his play than his golf score.

Sifford, tied for the lead with two-year pro Ralph Johnston going into today's final round, had four birdies Sunday to come from behind and steal the top spot from second-round leaders Lee Trevino and Deane Beman.

"I'm not shooting for scores. I started out that way early in the year," Sifford said, "but I decided to stiff" and pay more attention to the game. "I just go out and play," he said, beaming after his performance Sunday.

Sifford and Johnston go after the tourney's first prize of $25,000 and a new automobile today with 12 under par 201s.

Trevino and Beman were three strokes and one stroke off the pace, respectively, after Sunday's round.

Veteran Lee Elder, fighting to become the first black invited to the Masters tournament, finished Sunday with a two under par 69 and a three-round 202, one stroke off the pace.

Shane Gould:

Nobody can win them all

MUNICH (AP) — "I guess nobody can win them all," sighed dejected Australian waterbug Shane Gould, "well, maybe nobody except Mark Spitz."

They're running out of adjectives here at these 20th Summer Games to describe the aquatic feats of the "California Torpedo," now officially the greatest swimmer in the history of the Olympics.

The Indiana University dental student from Carmichael, Calif., captured an unparalleled sixth gold medal here Sunday, ignoring an ailing back to zoom through the 100-meter freestyle in his sixth world record, clocking 51.22 seconds.

Six events—six golds. He has one more today. One more event, that is. But few people doubt that when he finishes anchoring the 400-meter medley relay he'll make it seven golds as well.

By taking six, he's already become the greatest Olympian ever—not just the greatest swimmer. Previously, the only man to win five had been Italian fencer Nedo Nadi back in 1920.

Miss Gould was aiming for and U.S. women surpassed the Australians in the medals race when Keena Rothhammer upset Shane Gould in the 800 freestyle and Sandra Neilson anchored the 400 medley relay team to a world record.

Miss Gould, a 15-year-old Aussie trying for her fourth gold medal in this Olympiad, settled for silver when Miss Rothhammer, a 15-year-old from Santa Clara, set a world mark of 8:53.68 in the 800 freestyle. Novella Calligaris of Italy took the bronze.

So far, the four U.S. individual golds have gone to four girls and the team has six golds altogether, compared to five for Australia—three for Miss Gould and one each to Beverly Whitfield and Gail Neall.

Joining Miss Neilson of El Monte, Calif., on the 400 medley team which clocked a 4:20.75, were Melissa Belote of Springfield, Va., Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M., and Deena Deardruff of Cincinnati.

It's a rough road to singles crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It's a rough road to a singles crown in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, as some seeded players are finding out.

With third-round play incomplete, four seeded men, including No. 2 Ken Rosewall and No. 9 Marty Riessen, have already been eliminated and others are getting opposition they rarely encountered before.

Riessen, No. 3 on the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's All-American list, was outclassed and outplayed Sunday in losing to South Africa's Frew McMillan, who took the first set easily and went on to a 6-2, 6-7, 6-4, 6-1 triumph.

Women scheduled to play include second-seeded Evonne Goolagong, who faces a tough opponent in Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles, while third-seeded Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., meets Julie Heldman of Houston, ranked sixth nationally. Fifth-seeded John Newcombe goes against countryman Fred Stolle.

her fourth gold Sunday in the 800-meter freestyle, hoping to surpass American Debbie Meyer's harvest of three in 1968. But the Aussie ace was edged out of it by another 15-year-old lass, Keena Rothhammer of Santa Clara, Calif.

"I swam the way I planned," Keena said after her world-record clocking of 8:53.68, adding: "I was aware of Shane all the way." Shane finished nearly three seconds later.

Gunnar Larsson won his second gold of the Games, sort of biting the hand that fed him. The Swede had trained for two years at Long Beach State in California. "There's better competition in the United States than Sweden," Larsson explained. "That's why I went there."

So on Sunday, he went out and beat a pair of Americans with a world record 2:07.17 in the 200-meter individual medley. Tim McKee of Newton Square, Pa., was second and Steve Furniss of Santa Ana, Calif., was third.

U.S. girls, namely Melissa Belote of Springfield, Va., Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M.,

Deena Deardruff of Cincinnati and Sandy Neilson of El Monte, Calif., collaborated for a gold in the 400-meter medley relay in a world-record time of 4:20.75.

America's basketball team, unbeaten now in seven games here and in 62 of them since the sport was introduced to the Olympics in 1936, had a ball at the expense of the Japanese, breezing to a 99-33 triumph. The U.S. squad goes into Wednesday's semifinals against Italy.

It was "home town" day in track as West Germany won three golds, Germany's greatest single Olympic day since the 1936 Berlin Games. Even one of the American bronze medal winners shared in the glory.

He was Bill Schmidt, a U.S. Army lieutenant from Muse, Pa., throwing the javelin 276 feet 11½ inches in an event in which an American had not won a medal in 20 years.

The day's activity boosted the United States back atop the medal standings, with a total of 60-21 golds, 21 silvers and 18 bronzes.

Campaign for funds to bury man underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman of Italian descent, seeking to put national pressure on a funeral-home operator, appealed today for help in a campaign to bury an Italian-American who was murdered 61 years ago.

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., a former New York City policeman and a past president of the National Police Officers Association of America, asked anyone interested in "the fight for human rights and an end to ethnic prejudice" to join in a letter-writing blitz in the case of Frezxo Conzeppo.

Since his death in 1911, and until last week, Conzeppo's body, wearing only a loin cloth, had been exhibited in a glass-covered box in a garage at a Launburg, N.C., funeral home owned by Hewitt McDougald. It became an attraction for visitors.

Last week, McDougald, saying he had done nothing wrong in displaying the body, removed it from public view. He said he had received no complaints from local people.

Biaggi's office today released a letter sent by him to North Carolina Gov. Robert W. Scott, urging help in obtaining a burial.

Biaggi said that, "as a human being and a person with a sense of Christian charity and concern for the sanctity of the human body, I find this Roman Circus exhibition of the remains of a human being ghoul-ish in the least and an insult to human decency and justice," Biaggi added.

Newspaper accounts said Conzeppo was killed near Launburg in 1911 by a fellow carnival worker. The dead man's father, who spoke no English, paid part of the McDougald funeral home's burial fee. However, as he never returned to pay the rest or to give burial instructions, the body remained unburied.

Biaggi, who started a hunt for relative of Conzeppo, both in Providence, R.I., the last known address, and in Italy, said McDougald "is insisting on payment of storage and other fees amounting to more than $5,000 before he will consider burying the body."

Collecting soil samples

Workmen with Southwestern Laboratories of Shreveport check drilling operations at the proposed construction site of the new Holiday Inn to be located at the intersection of State Highway 4 and I-30. The crew made three 25-foot borings to collect soil samples for testing purposes to determine the type of foundation needed for the new building. Construction is scheduled to begin in the near future.

Father forgives son after wife is slain

INDIALANTIC, Fla. (AP) — "I forgive my son for what he did, and she would too," said Roy Styers, who returned home from a fishing trip and found the bloodsoaked body of his murdered wife.

Styers, whose 57-year-old wife Betty was killed when her head was battered with a claw hammer, added that his son "is a good man who didn't know what he was doing."

Officers said shortly after the killing Saturday, 26-year-old Arthur E. Styers rushed into the Indialantic police station on Florida's Atlantic coast and said he wanted to report an emergency.

"I may have killed my mother but I am not sure," the young Styers told dispatcher Neil Chancellor. "I am taking drugs and I think I am hallucinating."

Chancellor said the younger Styers burst into tears as he pleaded, "Please, call this number and find out for me if it is a hallucination."

The officer dialed the Styers' home and discovered it was no hallucination.

"He killed my wife. He's gone crazy," said the older Styers, who had just arrived home and found his wife's body.

Sgt. Nick Ball of the Brevard County Sheriff's Department said young Styers was transferred from County Jail Sunday to the psychiatric ward of the Florida Hospital in Orlando after he reportedly beat his head against the bars in his cell.

His father blamed the tragedy on an accident several months ago in which Arthur suffered serious head injuries.

He said his had been undergoing psychiatric treatment at the Wuesthoff Memorial Hospital in Rockledge, Fla.

"His mother finally talked him into taking the pills during the last three days," Styers said. "For some reason he became more despondent and we couldn't do much with him."

He said doctors wanted to have the son committed to a hospital but he and his wife objected. "We thought it was better to have him home with us."

The father added, "Arthur called me last night to say he was sorry. My son is a good man."

Sheriff's Sgt. George Ashlock said that the son was charged with first-degree murder.

Girl has a lion for a pet

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Sheryl Nathurst wanted a kangaroo for a pet, but settled for a baby lion named Napoleon, who has his own room, frolics in the family swimming pool and chews on the fireplace irons.

Sheryl, a part 16-year-old high school junior, started looking two years ago for an unusual pet to add a little variety to the family zoo — which already included Nickie the German Shepherd, Pumpkin the Cat and Herbie the Hamster.

"Then we heard about these people in Miami who had two lions and a jaguar," said Sheryl. "They said they knew a man at the San Diego Zoo who could arrange to have a lion cub sent to us."

Napoleon, a three-month-old lion cub, arrived at the Nathurst doorstep a short time later.

"Four generations of Napoleon's family had lived in captivity so the zoo decided to let this one have another kind of life," Sheryl explained.

And Napoleon seems to thrive in his cageless surroundings and three meals a day.

"You always feed them by hand," said Margaret Nathurst, Sheryl's mother, who poked a mixture of raw meat and egg into Napoleon's mouth. "That way they learn your hand isn't something to be afraid of and won't bite it."

"We used to give him milk out of a baby bottle but when he started teething he'd bite the nipples off," Mrs. Nathurst added.

To Mrs. Nathurst, raising a lion cub is a lot like rearing a child. "Most people are under the misconception that lions are very dangerous," she said. "They're not if they're brought up properly. You just have to be strict with them, especially at this age."

Being strict with a cub which weighs only 25 pounds is one thing, but what about when Napoleon grows into a full-grown lion packing 450 pounds?

"When he gets to the size of our dog we're planning to build a compound for him on our ranch south of town," Mrs. Nathurst said.

Wife of author is arrested in Zurich

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Edith Irving, fighting tears after she was separated from her children, was arrested at Zurich Airport today as she arrived from New York to face Swiss charges arising from her part in her writer husband's hoax autobiography of Howard Hughes.

"I surrender to Swiss authorities because I hope and believe that I will be given a fair trial," she told reporters in a broken voice after alighting from the airliner with her two sons. "I hope the whole thing will be over soon."

Looking haggard, she said she hoped the children would be well taken care of during the time she would have to spend in custody.

"The best thing would be if I could keep them with me in jail," she added.

The two boys, aged 4 and 2, and their nurse had left in a police minibus before she met the press. Her Swiss lawyer, Dr. Peter Widmer, joined her in the ride to the office of Zurich's district attorney, Peter Veleff.

She was arrested on a Swiss warrant charging her with fraud and forgery in cashing—as "Helga R. Hughes"—$650,000 in checks given her husband by New York publisher McGraw-Hill and intended for the reclusive billionaire. Swiss authorities announced last Friday that most of the money has been returned to McGraw-Hill.

Mrs. Irving, 37, already has served two months in jail in the United States, pleading guilty to charges of complicity. Her husband, Clifford Irving, started a 2½-year term in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., a week ago today.

Court sources here said it might take six months to a year before a decision is made on an indictment in her case. But officials have indicated she might be freed pending trial after investigators are satisfied there is no more danger of "collusion."

Under the Swiss penal code, conviction on fraud and forgery carries prison terms of up to five years.

There was no word on where the children were taken. Relatives of Mrs. Irving are living in a village about 80 miles from here.

Grandmother helps disarm gunman following shooting

DESTIN, Fla. (AP) — A 59-year-old grandmother says she helped disarm a gunman who walked into a crowded restaurant after allegedly shooting and wounding the owner.

"I grabbed the rifle and held it up in the air," Lili Shirah said Sunday. "He tried to take

SUIT TO BE FILED

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Thomas A. Glaze, head of The Election Laws Institute, reiterated Saturday that he would file a suit within the next few weeks to block a ballot position in Arkansas for the American party.

Glaze, a lawyer, announced completion of his investigation of 42,000 signatures on petitions submitted by the party for a place on the Nov. 7 general election ballot.

He said the petitions deserved further investigation.

it out of my hands but I had a death grip on it."

An Okaloosa County Sheriff Department spokesman later identified the gunman as Albert E. Williams, 42, of Destin. The spokesman said Williams was charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the shooting of businessman Bernarr Kelly Saturday night.

Kelly, 37, who owns several charter fishing boats, a construction firm and The Wharf restaurant in this Gulf Coast resort town, was listed in critical condition Sunday night in a Pensacola hospital. Police said he was shot in the head in a dispute over the firing of a first mate on one of his fishing boats.

Mrs. Shirah, assistant manager of the restaurant, said she was standing in the middle of the floor looking for tables to seat a long line of patrons when the gunman walked in.

The grandmother of three said she asked if she could help him, and he replied he was "looking for Jack."

Then the man pointed the rifle down a row of occupied tables, she said.

Mrs. Shirah said she charged the gunman and grabbed the rifle.

She said she held onto the gun until Jimmy Trammel, a boat worker, rushed through the door and disarmed the man.

Before entering the restaurant, police said Williams had fired two shots through the window of Kelly's nearby Boat Service office, then walked into the office and shot Kelly when he and another employee walked toward Williams to try to calm him.

Williams' son, Donny, 18, was fired several hours before the incident from the job he held as first mate aboard one of Kelly's fishing boats.

Governors tell McGovern it's a steep uphill fight

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Southern governors have told Sen. George McGovern he faces a steep uphill fight to carry the South against President Nixon.

The Democratic presidential candidate met Sunday night for almost three hours — an hour longer than he had planned — with 15 of the governors at a private dinner held on the eve of the opening session of the Southern Governors Conference.

McGovern said afterwards he did not seek endorsements and received none.

But North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott, a vocal critic of McGovern at the Democratic National Convention, announced later that he would serve as chairman of McGovern's North Carolina campaign.

South Carolina Gov. John West, previously a fence-sitter, said he would vote for the ticket. But, he added, "My recommendation is that each voter study the issues and the candidates and make his decision according to the dictates of his own conscience."

West joined a growing list of Southern governors who said they could do no more for McGovern than cast a Democratic ballot. Making similar statements after the meeting were Govs. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, Jimmy Carter of Georgia, and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

Some of the Democratic governors interviewed after the meeting — Bill Waller of Mississippi for one — said they had not yet made up their minds whether they could even vote for McGovern.

McGovern made no speech to the governors. Hearnes said no issues were discussed and that the conversation focused on organization.

The senator's only public remarks of the evening came when he held a brief news conference before flying on to Akron and Dayton, Ohio.

McGovern conceded he faced an uphill fight "to carry this section of the nation," but added "I won't concede a single state."

He pledged to return for more campaigning in the South. Sources inside the meeting said McGovern generally detailed his campaign plan and the governors assessed his situation in each Southern state. Almost to a man the governors said Nixon now led McGovern in their state.

Carter of Georgia doubted McGovern could carry as many as five Deep South states. "I'd be very surprised if he did that well down here," said the Georgian.

Vet is 'too young to retire'

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A 25-year-old veteran who lost both hands and part of his vision in Vietnam says he's "too young to retire," so he's taken a job pumping gas.

For the past three months John Eliason, a former Army infantry medic, has held down a part-time job at a local service station, and his employer says he's "a real good worker."

"He's pumped gas, changed tires, checked oil — done almost everything," said station manager Richard Nelson.

Eliason was 19 when he was drafted and sent to Vietnam. Two years later on a bunker near Dak To, a grenade explosion blew off both his arms below the elbow and lodged three pieces of shrapnel in his right eye.

After a year and a half in hospitals, he was discharged with full disability pension and Social Security benefits, but balked at the prospect of a life of idleness.

Eliason and his wife, Melissa, whom he met shortly after returning to the United States, could have lived on a permanent income of more than $800 a month from military benefits. The couple has a 13-month-old daughter, Susan, and another child on the way.

"I'm too young to retire," Eliason said in an interview.

"It seems really odd to be in my position — to be retired at 21 when everyone else has to wait until they're 65."

At first, he said he "hung around" the station lending a hand during peak hours, then gradually worked his way into a part-time job.

The bearded, long-haired Eliason shows little bitterness. Though he said he opposed the war when he was drafted, he now feels a United States victory in Vietnam would help justify his loss.

Not only can Eliason perform with his one prosthetic arm most of the chores any service station attendant would, he also drives a car, occasionally racing his on a nearby track.

Eliason, who all his life has been an avid collector of snakes, frogs and other reptiles, says his handicap has given him one distinct advantage over most other people.

"Who else can catch a ratlesnake with his bare hand?" he said.

Arkansas Outdoors

By CHARLES BURTON

LITTLE ROCK—Four ducks, 50 days, and a $5 duck stamp are the pertinent features of the 1972-73 duck season for Arkansas hunters.

The season will run from November 25 through January 13, 50 days, the same length as last year. However, as many sportsmen have requested, the duck season will end five days later this year. This action was taken in the hope that severe weather in the states to the north will drive ducks into Arkansas before the season closes.

The bag limit will again be four ducks. All four may be mallards, but the bag may not include more than two wood ducks. Canvasbacks and redheads may not be taken at all this year in Arkansas or any other state in the Mississippi Flyway.

Hunters will be required to have a valid Arkansas hunting license and a valid federal migratory bird stamp (duck stamp). The cost of the duck stamp has been increased by the federal government from $3 to $5 since last season.

Hunters will also be required to plug any guns with a capacity of four or more shells to reduce the total capacity of the gun to three shots before reloading. The plug must be of such design that it cannot be removed without disassembling the weapon.

Shooting hours will again be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

SPECIAL ATTENTION

Upland or "farm" game will soon be receiving considerable attention from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission and the Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service. These two agencies have entered into a cooperative agreement to launch a program aimed at improvement of upland game populations, namely quail, rabbits, and squirrels. According to Extension Wildlife Specialist Robert Pierce these species will receive the bulk of the effort, but on lands where deer and turkey populations exist, these species will also receive some benefits.

In describing the program Pierce said it would be modeled after other Extension programs that emphasize landowner education, motivation, and involvement. Pierce said there are 50,433 farms in Arkansas that total 15,694,527 acres, and the operators of these farms control the fate of game on over 47 per cent of all the land in the state.

Through this program the Cooperative Extension Service effort will be primarily directed through preparation and distribution of publications on farm game management; county meetings with land managers to encourage integration of agriculture and game management practices; development and dissemination of information regarding federal assistance programs related to wildlife; conducting short courses on game management, educational efforts through the use of mass media; demonstrations and farm visits; and conference and training sessions with Game and Fish Commission personnel.

The Game and Fish Commission will assist in the cooperative extension service's educational effort and provide technical assistance to land managers.

Pierce emphasized the fact that this is a fledgling program and the first few months after its inception will be devoted to planning and preparation before the statewide programs can be launched. He said that details on who landowners can contact for assistance will be released sometime in late October or early November.

Officials of both the Game and Fish Commission and the Extension Service have stated that it is recognized that this program will not produce immediate dramatic results, but it is believed that it will produce more upland game, by being built on a foundation of landowner motivation, than have more expensive "action" programs of the past.

RECEIVES DEGREE—Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Griffin of Hope recently learned of the graduation of their daughter-in-law, Brenda Bradley Griffin. She received the master's degree in sociology from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa on Aug. 11. Mrs. Griffin is a former graduate of Iowa State University where she received the BS in 1971. For the past year, she has served on a research project, concerned with explaining and predicting juvenile delinquency, at Drake University.

Hijacking discussion set today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates from 17 nations planned to meet here today to begin work on a treaty for joint action against countries which fail to adequately discourage airline hijackings to their soil.

U.S. Treasury Secretary John A. Volpe was prepared to deliver a tough speech on the subject at the opening meeting of the legal subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), his aides said.

The United States, with Canadian backing, wants the subcommittee to consider an international airline boycott of countries which fail to prosecute or extradite hijackers, or which do not return hijacked passengers and crews.

A similar proposal was turned down by the ICAO last year. However, it called for a new treaty after a wave of hijackings last June prompted a one-day protest strike by pilots in several countries.

The ICAO is the United Nations agency with jurisdiction in civil aviation matters at the international level.

The United States argues that a joint international suspension of air service to countries which do not discourage hijackings would have better results than boycotts by individual countries.

Weakness from 'water pills'

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you kindly tell me why, when I take the so-called water pills once a day for two days, I have a feeling of weakness that really puts me out of commission? Incidentally, I'll be 90 next month.

Dear Reader — By water pills, I presume you mean a pill that will cause the kidneys to form more urine. Pills of this type are sometimes used to enable women to lose water if they retain fluid just before their menstrual periods, and they're also used in the treatment of high blood pressure or the accumulation of water in the body from a number of diseases, including heart trouble.

Most of the water pills work by causing the kidneys to discard sodium, commonly found in table salt and other foods. Sodium is a natural and necessary element in the normal body. We have enough sodium chloride (table salt) in our bodies to make the blood and other free fluids about as salty as ordinary sea water. As long as sodium salt is retained by the body, the body will also

BULL ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Promoters of a rock music festival on this peninsula in the Wabash River wrestled with problems caused by a crowd five times larger than they had expected today and extended the three-day bash into tonight.

Indiana State Police estimated the crowd at 275,000. A spokesman for promoters said only 50,000 had been anticipated.

The spokesman said 25,000 advance tickets were sold at $20 each and about 5,000 tickets were sold at the gate for $25 each. The rest of the crowd was listed as gatecrashers, many of them swimming to the island.

Food was trucked in and extra toilet facilities were under construction as many of the young fans spread into surrounding towns in search of food and a place to sleep.

Promoters Robert Alexander and Andrew Duncan said the food situation "is getting better," but held open the possibility of dropping food from helicopters.

Two of the headline groups scheduled to play, Joe Cocker and the Black Sabbath, looked at the crowd, demanded more money and refused to play.

The site is a 900-acre former farm pasture that was surrounded by water when the river's course shifted. It is located in Illinois, but the only access is a Posey County, Ind., road.

The festival originally was to end about 6 p.m. EST, today, but the promoters promised Sunday night to continue at least two hours later "because more groups came and people wanted to play."

Jim Reis, owner of a catering service from nearby Evansville, Ind., said one of his eight vans here was wrecked by hungry crowds Sunday morning.

Meanwhile, the massive congregation was a financial boon to surrounding businessmen. A restaurant in neighboring Poseville, Ind., stayed open all night to sell food, and Poseyville grocer J.L. Hirsch reported business up 25 per cent Sunday, when he's normally closed.

Indiana State Police said some 50 persons have been arrested for illegal possession of alcohol and narcotics while going to and from the site. State police from both Indiana and Illinois and sheriff's deputies have kept watch from the banks of the river, but have not patrolled the island itself.

Authorities said the crowd generally has been well-behaved, but said drug use was open.

Illinois State Police said the biggest problem was cars parked bumper-to-bumper along the only access road to the island and massive traffic congestion on Interstate 64 and U.S. 460.

Crackdown — MANILA (UPI) — Under pressure from downtown moviehouse owners, Mayor Ramon D. Bagatsing of Manila has directed police to arrest persons who pose as city agents and demand "protection money" from theater owners.

Business Mirror

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City National Bank of Columbus has spent the last eight months trying to find out if people like you can be weaned away from checks and cash.

City National would give you a magnetized credit card instead.

Art Kelly, the young City National officer who is running the experiment says, "Something has to be done to cut both the cost of checking accounts to customers and to relieve the paperwork that is just about out of hand."

In the City National concept—machines, which would substitute for bank windows and tellers—would be scattered around something like soft drink machines, perhaps in parking lots of big industrial plants or in stores.

At the moment, City National is trying to figure out if there's enough profit in the scheme. Bank-Americard, one of the largest credit card firms, is a partner with City National in the experiment.

Two hundred sixty U.S. banks and financial institutions in Japan, France, Sweden, Denmark, England, Canada, Puerto Rico and West Germany also want to know the answers. All have sent representatives to find out what City National has been doing.

What City National did last October was to issue magnetized Bank-Americard cards in affluent Upper Arlington, a Columbus suburb of about 40,000. The magnetic stripe on the back tells a computer who owns it.

The bank also signed up 27 firms and installed card terminals at their cash registers. Card terminals essentially are push-button telephones hooked up to a central computer.

Then the bank made the computer talk back with a vocabulary of 24 words.

You buy. A clerk pushes in the sales total. The computer voice repeats the charge. If it's correct, then a computer credits the business with the amount of the purchase and debits the customer's bank account with the same amount.

In just 14 seconds, the seller has his money. The customer didn't have to handle cash or write a check, and the bank acquired an automatic record. The bank clearing house was relieved of paperwork.

In eight months of this experiment, $500,000 in 30,000 transactions have gone through the computer. Sixteen of the 27 firms already have said they would like to make the system permanent, six others gave favorable reactions and three said they were "marginal about the program."

Still to be heard from officially is the customer. That will come out of a report by Field Research Inc., of San Francisco. But some unofficial observations are possible.

Is hog cholera checked?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's commissioner of agriculture says this week will be the "critical period" in determining whether an outbreak of hog cholera that started in Kentucky two weeks ago has been checked.

Wendell Butler said that agriculture officials "are crossing our fingers" in hopes no new cases are reported. He noted the incubation period for the disease is 13 to 14 days and said if this week passes without a major new outbreak, the greatest danger will have passed.

Meanwhile, two herds of swine exposed to hog cholera were slaughtered in Ohio Saturday and another herd is to be destroyed Tuesday in an effort to prevent the spread of the disease in that state.

About 5,500 swine have been killed in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana since the disease was discovered.

In addition, Tennessee agriculture officials have imposed a quarantine on importation of Kentucky swine.

The disease is fatal to hogs, but cannot be contracted by humans.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Here is a hand from George Gooden's new advanced lesson course."

Oswald: "George is the man who thought of the code word, ARCH, where 'A' is Analyze the lead; 'R' is Review the bidding; 'C' is Count your winners and losers."

Jim: "We changed the word to 'ARCH' with 'H' standing for the all-important How can I make the hand? We are indebted to George for the ARCH, and he has now added our H."

Oswald: "The first hand in the book shows the 'H' of ARCH in action. South needs six trump tricks to make his contract. Without a trump lead, he has time to play hearts and will ruff his third heart with one of dummy's trumps. However, West has opened a trump and South sees that the defense will be able to play trumps three times before South can ruff a heart. How can South make a sixth trump trick in spite of this mean defense?"

Jim: "A dummy reversal will do the trick. South wins in his hand; plays ace-king and another club to ruff once. Then king and ace of diamonds, followed by a second club ruff. Then he plays a third diamond and there is no way for the defense to keep South from ruffing dummy's last diamond."

When speaking of your ailments, please select another listener than yours truly.

Keep your best foot forward and the loud ahead of you will step on it with his heel.

Some husbands who give dictation all day get it all evening.

Those who ask to give till it hurts find most folks have a very low pain threshold.

LAND DEVELOPMENT
LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Dr. David E. Herrick, assistant director of the Rocky Mountain Forest and Range Experiment Station, has signed a cooperative agreement which launches Texas Tech's research participation in the Eisenhower Consortium for Research on Forest and Related Land.

The project will analyze management problems and opportunities in eastern New Mexico and west Texas and be primarily concerned with natural resources, recreational opportunities and environmental management.

"In the West the problems of man and his interactions with the environment are most urgent in the southern Rocky Mountains and the adjacent high plains," he said.
